Meal service option - € 1.000

The lunch-time meal service is provided by ALMA, the International School of Italian Cooking, adjacent to UNISG.

For the first week of the master's program, students are invited to eat at ALMA in order to determine whether they wish to continue the service for the rest of the year. The decision to accept or decline food service must be made at this time and is not subsequently reversible.

The meal-service option provides one lunch per day during weekdays when UNISG is in session for a total of approximately 110 meals during the year. Students who do not register for the meal-service option may not eat in the dining hall but will be required to eat in the classrooms, leaving them clean and in order for afternoon lessons. No refrigerator, kitchen, or microwave equipment is available to student for meal preparation.

For complete terms of the meal service, see Art. 4 of the official announcement of the master.
